'Forced out of my home by the noise of lorries'

HANNAH MIRSKY

AN increasing number of lorries parking in and around Haverhill are causing problems for residents – and one grandmother says she is being forced to move house because of the noise.

Marion Searle, 45, who lives just off the A1307 in Withersfield, has given notice to her landlord since a layby, which lorries constantly use for short periods at a time, was reopened early last week.

The layby, which is visible from her bedroom window, was closed in August last year after Ms Searle complained to the council. However it was reopened last Tuesday.

Since then, Ms Searle says she has not been able to sleep for more than a few hours at night because the noise of the lorries coming and going makes her house shake.

"My windows rattle," she said. "You put headphones in and you can still hear it."

She says she counted 11 different lorries stopping in the layby on Wednesday, and 16 on Thursday.

Ms Searle says that new signs, which read "No lorry parking overnight" were put up in the layby several months ago, and she called the Suffolk County Council's highways department to see if that meant it was going to be reopened.

NOISY: Marion Searle at her bedroom window, which overlooks the A1307

She said: "They assured me it was not going to be opened in the near future. I asked if they would give me two months' notice if it was going to reopen and they said yes.

"Then they just came on Tuesday and took the barriers down."

She says she got in contact with

Suffolk County Council about the issue, and yesterday barriers were put back up.

However, she says the new barriers are "useless", as they allow space for two lorries in the layby, and that one parked up there just eight minutes after the barriers were returned.

A spokesperson for Suffolk County Council confirmed that they were aware of the problem and were working on resolving it.

Ms Searle, who is disabled, said that the lack of sleep is having a serious impact on her life.

"I get really anxious when I'm tired," she said. "And you can't do anything the next day because you're so tired."

Her three-year-old grandson George has not been able to come and stay since the barriers were taken down, because the noise of the lorries bothers him.

She says the problem is now worse than it was before the layby closed, because the new signs state that lorries cannot stay all night so drivers use the layby for 45 minutes at a time and come and go throughout the night. She says many of them have loud refrigeration units.

Town councillor Maureen Byrne has also been working to help Ms Searle and two other residents who live close to a separate layby that was also closed after their complaints.

Cllr Byrne has been in touch with Culina, a Haverhill-based logistics company based in Phoenix Road, about lorries delivering goods to them waiting for long periods around the town.

Cllr Byrne said: "In Hollands Road; the industrial estate; anywhere that's got a bit of space there's a lorry."

Cllr Byrne, former mayor Roger André and two residents badly affected by the lorries held a meeting with a manager from Culina in April, and are expecting to follow it up with another meeting later this month.

'There are not enough facilities for lorry drivers'

Cllr Byrne said: "The manager was told of serious problems with lorries parking all across Haverhill.

"We also raised the issue of what they leave behind. They pee anywhere and leave plastic bags of faeces.

"The vehicles in question are waiting to unload, and they need to get a slot to be unloaded, and that slot could take one or two days to come up.

"We recognise and appreciate that Culina employ people in the town, but it's a massive problem.

"There's not enough space on Haverhill's roads for these lorries to park.

"We have told Culina they should have a designated parking area."

Steve Morris, general manager at Culina, said:

"We had a meeting with councillors in April and we have another planned for the end of this month.

"Ninety per cent of the product stored comes in from the continent and the drivers have to rest at some point in their journey. The facilities for them in and around Haverhill are limited.

"We have recently purchased a number of industrial bins to place on the road leading to our distribution centre and regularly send staff out on 'pick walks' to help keep the roadway clean and tidy.

"We are keen to work with Cllr Byrne to ensure that an effective solution to the residents' concerns is implemented."

WATER WATER EVERYWHERE: Heavy rain in the Haverhill area caused flash flooding on some roads, including this one between Haverhill and Withersfield.
Picture: Keith Jones

Changeable weather causes flash floods

CHANGEABLE weather conditions on Monday saw flash floods appear in Haverhill.

Residents took to social media to express their surprise at the conditions, posting pictures of rainbows over the town against a stormy sky.

Ernie Goody, who lives on the Chalkstone Estate, said: "This estate gets flooded every time it rains heavily because it's on a hill. Luckily it drains pretty quickly."

A spokesperson for the Met Office said about the unusual weather: "We had a little low pressure system move through the UK on Monday, bringing with it some cloud and rain."

However, weather is set to be better for the coming bank holiday weekend, with temperatures in the high teens, and sunshine on Saturday and Monday. There is a chance of showers on Sunday afternoon.

'What is being done to boost the High Street?'

A COUPLE who run a local business in Haverhill have spoken out about the lack of support for new businesses in the town.

Ali Yagir owns Star Express Burgers in Queen Street, and is helped by his wife Wendy.

The pair live on Brickfields Drive on the Meadowlands Estate, where they moved nine years ago.

They took over the business last year, and Wendy says they have already noticed a drop in the number of customers because of the state of the High Street.

Ali said: "At the moment the High Street is all charity shops and betting shops.

"I came to Haverhill in 2000 and in

HANNAH MIRSKY

15 years it's gone back and back and back.

"Haverhill is run by Bury St Edmunds like a step child. When you look at where your council tax goes, it's not going towards anything in Haverhill."

Wendy added: "The High Street is full of charity shops. Why don't they give an incentive to have a shop on the High Street?"

"We should have lower rates and encourage young businesses, Haverhill hasn't got the population for big chain shops like Next, but you could have nice little small businesses if the rates were better."

The couple attended the town meeting on Monday night, and Ali asked outgoing mayor Roger André what the council was planning to do to boost the High Street.

Mr André replied: "This is very much a matter which the masterplan is hoping to address.

"The consultation begins in June. That's the time for traders and residents to talk to the consultants and make sure what's in the masterplan is what you want."

Primary school pupils have a hoot with winged friends

PUPILS made friends with winged visitors as part of an animal-themed day of fun yesterday.

A barn owl and a tawny owl were brought into Clements Primary School in Haverhill to meet Year Two children.

The visit was part of a wider range of events put on as part of RSPCA day at the school. The day was organised by the pupils on the school council, who chose the charity to raise money for during this academic year.

Other activities included the children wearing animal-themed clothes, and a talk on looking after animals from members of the RSPCA. The day raised £200. Headteacher Caroline Zwierzchowska-Dod said: "We think it's really important for the children themselves to make decisions about what happens in school. We want them to be good citizens and members of the community."

"The children took responsibility for the day, including writing a letter to parents about it." The owls' visit comes shortly after a brood of chicks was hatched by reception class at the primary school in early May.

It also coincides with the Year Two pupils learning about raptors and night-time animals.

Ms Zwierzchowska-Dod said: "They had to keep the owls separate from the chicks in reception. The whole school's gone a bit mad!"

NEWS IN BRIEF

Police issue warning after more thefts from parked cars

HAVERHILL police have issued a warning to residents over continued thefts from motor vehicles. Five such thefts have occurred over the last week.

"People are leaving vehicles insecure, unlocked in their driveway, and thieves have been successful in a few attempts," said a spokeswoman for the police.

"The message to people is just to secure your vehicle even if it's parked outside your house."

Items stolen include sat navs and small change, and the thefts have not been confined to a particular area of the town.

For crime prevention advice, or if you have seen anything suspicious, call Suffolk Police on 101. If you think a crime is in progress, call 999.

Woman denies assaulting neighbours in parking dispute

A HAVERHILL woman has pleaded not guilty at Bury St Edmunds Magistrates Court on Monday to assaulting two neighbours in a parking dispute.

Miss Michelle McLoughlin, 26, of Colbeck Road, Haverhill, was accused of assaulting neighbour Iwona Wilde and giving her a bloody nose, and kicking neighbour Dan Upcraft in the groin on February 25 this year.

It is alleged she went over to their property while they were having a get together after a parking dispute got out of hand.

She maintains any injuries caused were in self defence, and she never entered the property.

The date for her trial has been set as August 14 at Bury St Edmunds Magistrates Court.

Boy, 11, threw brick at school

HANNAH MIRSKY

A BOY admitted smashing a window and door at a school, and threatening another boy with a knife, at Bury St Edmunds youth court yesterday.

The 11-year-old was one of the two boys behind a January attack on Haverhill's Clements Primary School on January 12 this year.

Carol Huston, prosecuting, said: "It's clear from the CCTV that he was with the other boy. They are seen to pick up bricks, seen to go to the door of the school, and damage was caused."

The defendant called himself an "idiot" for vandalising the school.

The boy also admitted attempting to rob another boy's dog by threatening him with a knife.

The victim of this attempted robbery was in a Haverhill park when the defendant and another boy came towards him on an electric scooter, the court heard.

The defendant started stroking and fussing the dog, while the other boy went off.

Ms Huston said that the defendant asked the victim "What would you do if someone pulled a knife on you?" and the victim replied that he would call the police.

SMASHED: Staff and pupils at the school after the vandalism

She went on: "[The defendant] then pulled out of his jumper a knife, with a blade about three to four inches long."

"He was holding the knife towards [the victim's] stomach. He said: 'Give me your dog.'"

She said the victim escaped by putting the dog over a fence and hiding while the two boys went past.

The defendant's mother said: "He's been quite difficult at home. We've had some tough times."

She said that since he started receiving support from the youth offenders service, his behaviour had improved.

Defending, Sumeer Chowdhry said: "He is getting support to deal with in particular his anger management issues, and is getting tested for ADHD."

"He is a caring boy. He has a great deal of care towards animals."

The magistrates heard he had helped to repair the damage at the school. They extended an eight month referral order to a twelve month one as a sentence for both offences.

Apply for new council grad jobs

APPLICATIONS are now open for 12 graduate placements with Suffolk County Council.

The new programme, launched this year, allows graduates to apply for individual roles relevant to their career choices within Suffolk County Council.

The council is providing 18-month roles over a variety of areas, which give applicants the chance to start careers in the public sector.

Councillor Lisa Chambers, Suffolk County Council's cabinet member for education and skills, said: "We need all young people in Suffolk to be well prepared to enter the workplace, and for these graduates to make successful transition from their higher education into sustainable employment."

"As an employer, the county council can support this ambition, by putting in place a programme of opportunities and workplace experiences for young people. We're encouraging graduates to consider Suffolk County Council as employers of choice."

The placements are part of the Raising the Bar scheme. For more information, visit www.risinghighsuffolk.org.uk/graduates.

Stroke support group hold event after getting grant

RAISING AWARENESS: Volunteers on the market in Haverhill, from left, Carolyn MacCartney, Catherine Clerkin, Elaine Monsen and Kathie Butcher

THE Haverhill Stroke Support Group was out and about on Haverhill Market on Friday.

The volunteers were raising awareness about strokes and blood pressure, and performed around 12 blood pressure checks between 9am and 2.30pm.

The group meets on Fridays at the Haverhill Fire Station. They have recently received a grant of £1,048 from ONE Haverhill to engage a speech and language therapist, Gail Evans, to help stroke survivors who have difficulty communicating.

For more information about the group, contact volunteer Kathie Butcher by emailing her at k.f.butcher@btinternet.com, or by calling her on 07923 526 555.

Ofsted tell council to do more

SUFFOLK County Council is making progress but still needs to do more in its school improvement plans, Ofsted has said.

Inspectors carried out a local authority school improvement inspection in January and found that the council was too slow in making significant improvements since the year before.

However, it did say that steps had been taken to support and challenge inadequate schools.

Councillor Lisa Chambers, Suffolk County Council's cabinet member for education and skills, said: "I believe this report comes as an endorsement of our direction of travel and the ambitions we have for the county's schools. "We take on board the areas for improvement identified in Ofsted's letter."

"These are all areas we were already aware of and work was already in progress before receipt of Ofsted's letter."

She continued: "We have already implemented significant changes since the last Ofsted visit."

"Suffolk is an improving picture and Ofsted recognises this."

Council consider plan

THE masterplan for Haverhill's town centre is moving a step closer.

A draft document detailing the masterplan for the town has been produced, and will be considered by St Edmundsbury Borough Council's cabinet next Thursday, May 28.

If it is approved, a six-week public consultation on the document will begin, running from June 8 to July 16.

HANNAH MIRSKY

The document contains proposals for more shops and cafes in the town centre and new places to live and work in Haverhill.

It also suggests improvements to the bus interchange and the environment on the High Street.

Its strategy for the town centre is to divide it into four interconnected quarters, which provide opportunities for mixed use development. This will be combined with a public realm framework which aims to make the town easier to get around.

Planning experts David Lock Associates, who have created the draft masterplan document, have described it as "aspirational, realistic and deliverable".

The aim is for the masterplan to be ready by September to build upon the strategy put forward in the Haverhill Vision 2031 document.

It is being prepared as a formal "supplementary planning document", with the aim that St Edmundsbury borough council will choose to adopt it.

You can view the document at westsuffolk.gov.uk.

NEW ROLES: Mayor Cllr Betty McLatchy and deputy mayor, David Roach

Healthcare top of new mayor's list of priorities

Haverhill's new mayor, Betty McLatchy, took up the chain of office on Monday night.

She was voted in at the first meeting of the new town council at the Haverhill Arts Centre.

She took over from outgoing mayor Roger André, who is no longer a councillor.

Cllr McLatchy outlined her priorities for the town in an acceptance speech.

She said: "It's a privilege to serve a town that is growing so rapidly. This is an important time for Haverhill."

"Once all the new developments are built, our population will exceed 40,000, and we need to be prepared for this."

"Some people say Haverhill's in a corner, but I see it as a link in a triangle. By working hard on road links, transport and health, I have no doubt that the new town council will pull together and work for the community. I am sure everyone will work together."

She also took the opportunity to thank Mr André for his work as mayor, and everyone who attended the meeting.

Healthcare is a particularly big priority for Cllr McLatchy, who is a trained nurse.

She has so far raised £12,500 towards an ultrasound machine in Haverhill by fundraising, and has set up a weekend walk-in first aid scheme at the Burton Centre in Camps Road.

She says that she would like to see a dedicated walk-in centre or cottage hospital in Haverhill, and is appealing for more volunteers for her first aid service.

Another of her priorities is to make sure that councillors work together across political divides.

The new town council is made up of seven Conservative councillors, six UKIP representatives, and three Labour councillors.

A new deputy mayor, Cllr David Roach, was also appointed at the town council meeting, replacing Cllr

Maureen Byrne, who remains on the town council.

Outgoing mayor Roger André made a speech looking back over the last year, his second as mayor.

He said that he and the deputy mayor had attended over 200 events and travelled over 2,000 miles as part of their duties.

He went on: "I continue to be heartened by the evidence I have seen of so many volunteering to assist our community, giving freely of their time, skills and energy to improve life in our area."

"The huge diversity of their talents and skills is a significant component in the rich tapestry of life in our community."

The meeting took place at 7.30pm, following the annual town meeting at 7pm.

To contact Cllr McLatchy about the first aid scheme, the ultrasound fundraising, or any other mayoral duties, call her on 01440 714338 or 07934 466930 or email her at ivormclatchy@btinternet.com.

Borough council's mayor and leader named

THE new mayor of St Edmundsbury and leader and cabinet of the borough council have been announced.

Among the cabinet members is Clare councillor Alaric Pugh, who will hold the portfolio for planning and growth. He is one of six cabinet members working with re-elected leader of the council Cllr John Griffiths.

The new mayor, Conservative councillor for Southgate ward Patrick Chung, was instated with a ceremony at the Apex in Bury St Edmunds on Tuesday.

The Green Party's Cllr Julia Makelam is the deputy mayor.

In addition to Cllr Pugh, the new cabinet members for St Edmundsbury are: families and communities portfolio, Cllr Robert Everitt; housing portfolio and deputy leader, Cllr Sara Mildmay-White; leisure and culture portfolio, Cllr Jo Rayner; operations portfolio, Cllr Peter Stevens, and resources and performance portfolio, Cllr Ian Houlder.

Cllr Griffiths said on being re-elected: "I am honoured to be able to carry on serving the people of St Edmundsbury. We are well-placed to face the considerable challenges ahead and will continue to focus on our strategic priorities of economic growth, housing and strong communities."

More houses or not, town will still be dated

I SUPPOSE having more houses on the proposed Great Wilsey Park development is good for Haverhill, but I can't help wondering what we are letting ourselves in for. If the proposed development goes ahead will we have what is stated? More doctors, a primary school, a small health centre, pharmacies, cafes, shops – or just houses with a pub/restaurant. Only time will tell.

Artists' impressions always look good on paper, but the truth, the real world that we live in, is vastly different. This proposed site will have two main roads in and out; one in Suffolk, one in Essex. Neither are fit for this decade, the century that we live in, they are firmly rooted in the past; the 1960s.

This town can build 2,500 homes or 5,000, nothing will change. The town will still be out of date. The old Co-op site will probably still be empty and Queen Street will be a good location for the TV series 'The Walking Dead.'

If the plan gets the go ahead and it takes 9 – 10 years to complete, here we are again with Haverhill, the same old snail's pace in doing anything constructive instead of concentrating on the future. What about now?

How long before you can get an X-ray in Haverhill and not have to go to the West Suffolk, Addenbrookes or Newmarket, and a doctor's appointment that suits you.

I don't see anyone fighting to get into the units at the Research Park. I'm sure the same will be with this new site. Why would anyone in their right mind, family or business, want to come here? They must want their head read. With Haverhill increasing all the time, when will we get a lorry park? We won't.

They'll just park in the lay-bys or maybe outside your house if they can. Mind you all housing estates are now at breaking point for parking so you'll probably get spared that.

Haverhill's answer is to just build more and more houses – and infrastructure... well we can do that later... wrong! Successful thriving towns have the infrastructure in place, then build. Not like Haverhill shutting the gate after the horse has bolted. Newmarket, Bury St Edmunds, Braintree and Witham have the right idea, but they have two things that Haverhill lacks; Proper roads and railway. I'm sure that every land management group, consultants, call them what you wish, tell you that Haverhill is a vibrant thriving town going places.

How you perceive Haverhill, I suppose depends on how old you are and what your expectations are for yourself and your family. I'll sum Haverhill up for you in four words that is as relevant today as it was back in 1967. NO

Students turn market traders

HANNAH MIRSKY

STUDENTS took part in a business battle at the Haverhill Youth Market on Saturday.

Six groups of students aged 13 to 16 manned stalls on the market selling products they chose themselves.

Earlier this year each group was given a £50 start-up grant and told to create a business plan.

Two teams from Castle Manor went head-to-head and targeted the confectionery market. The stall called "Sweet Treats" sold cakes, cookies and sweets, while "Sweet Shack" sold sweet kebabs, candyfloss and cakes.

Another Castle Manor team sold food and drink at the market and held a car wash at the school beforehand.

Teams from Samuel Ward sold confectionery and toiletries. There were four teams from Castle Manor and two from Samuel Ward in total.

The winner of the business competition for the students will be announced after the

N-ICE DAY: Manning the ice cream stall from Samuel Ward are Ollie Kemp, 13, Zac Bott, 14, Josh Gray, 14 and Harry King, 14

May half term, when students give presentations on the sales and profit from their stalls.

Claire Diamond, business and finance teacher at Castle Manor, said: "It has been fascinating to watch the Castle Manor Academy students all produce and market different business ideas within the same target area."

"All of the students are buzzing with enthusiasm and some have developed a previously unknown competitive streak."

Jo Ager, careers leader at Samuel Ward, said: "This has been a fantastic opportunity for the students to gain an understanding of how business works. They have experienced the difficulties as well as the fun."

The youth enterprise challenge was launched by ONE Haverhill earlier this year.

GONE FISHING: The Tackle Trailer which is coming to town

Town gets new fishing shop trailer

IT'S a big catch for keen anglers in Haverhill – a mobile tackle and bait shop will be setting up in the town.

The Tackle Trailer, part of a nationwide franchise, will be set up outside Haverhill's Tesco from 7am to 7pm on Thursdays and Fridays. It will be operated by franchisee Mark Buckle.

Tackle Trailer founder Steve Calder said: "Since Haverhill has no tackle shop, we're able to fill a gap for local anglers: supplying them with essential bait, terminal tackle and other kit in time for the weekend."

The angling store is donating the proceeds from its weekly rent to local good causes.

Tesco assistant manager Mark Alder said: "The decision was a no-brainer, really; it helps Mark to get his business off the ground; it drives new customers to our store; and it raises funds for local charities."

New fun run at summer bash

AN annual summer party will this year host its first ever fun run.

Haverhill's Summer Bash will take place for the third time this year, and will be kicked off with "Haver5 – the Haverhill Summer Bash Fun Run".

The Bash will take place on Sunday, July 19 at Haverhill Recreation Ground, and the runners will set off from the recreation ground at 10am.

The event has been organised by HaverSports, who are also responsible for the Haver10 10k run, the HaverHalf half marathon and the HaverTri triathlon, all of which launched last year.

This year they have launched both the Haver5 and HaverSportive, a cycling challenge.

Both the Summer Bash and the events organised by HaverSports aim to raise money for local charities, and they are hoping to make more than ever by teaming up.

Race director Jack Tappin said: "HaverSports' events so far have illustrated the thriving athletics scene in and around Haverhill, so I trust that will continue to be evident in Haver5."

"Haver10 had a fun run this year which was well supported, so there's clearly the appetite for beginners to tackle shorter distances and for the athletes of tomorrow to start getting into running."

"Haver5 will offer an ideal opportunity for runners of all abilities, including children and their families, to enjoy a running experience and see Haverhill."

Summer Bash organiser

David Doughty said: "This event is all about raising money for local charities, and given HaverSports' impressive fund raising in 2014 we were keen to collaborate to raise even more for Haverhill's good causes in 2015."

"Haver5 will offer a fun filled way for the Summer Bash to begin, with families and runners getting to enjoy a challenge before the main day gets started."

Sponsors and supporters of the event include Icen Waters, Tesco Haverhill, Eastern Facilities Management Solutions, OS Communications, Perform Sports Therapy and 297.

To enter the Haver5, visit You can enter Haver5 at www.entrystart.co.uk/haver5.

More information about the Summer Bash is available on the town council's website, www.haverhill-tc.gov.uk.

Stolen car recovered from field in town

A CAR which had been stolen was discovered in a field the same day it disappeared in Haverhill last week.

The Seat Ibiza had been taken from a property in the town's Sturmer Road last Thursday, May 14.

Police believe it was stolen some time between 9am and 4.30pm.

The vehicle was then discovered around 4.30pm in a field in Haverhill's Bumpstead Road.

Police believe it had been involved in a road traffic collision.

Officers attended the scene and removed the vehicle from the field.

It was fully recovered by 7.15pm.

Anyone who has any information about this incident can contact Haverhill Police on 101.

You can also call Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

New online feedback on healthcare

A NEW online way to share your thoughts on the healthcare you receive has just been launched. Healthwatch Suffolk – a body which makes sure patients' thoughts are heard – has set up a feedback centre on their website.

The centre is accessible via devices including mobile phones, tablets, and computers, and patients can easily and anonymously rate the care they receive.

The feedback will become part of a larger dataset on patients' views, alongside feedback collected in a more traditional way.

Analysis of this data will shed light on health and care trends, patterns, and issues, and these results will be actively shared with the public and with health and social care organisations.

Chair of Healthwatch Suffolk Tony Rollo said: "As an independent organisation, we hope to gain the trust of the public to tell us their full experiences of local services: the excellent and the good, as well as where things need to improve. We hope that by creating a familiar tool, we will be able to engage many more people in celebrating and improving health and social care here in Suffolk."

You can access the feedback centre by visiting www.healthwatchsuffolk.co.uk. For more information, call Healthwatch Suffolk on 01449 70394.

EXCELLENT: Childcare professional Michelle Brown with children who attend Sandcastles Playgroup

Pre-school's special needs care praised

A NATIONAL resource about excellent special needs childcare showcases a Haverhill pre-school.

HANNAH MIRSKY

Sandcastle Playgroup, based at the town's Castle Manor Academy, is featured in a video made by the Family and Childcare Trust.

The video is part of a set of resources aimed at helping families whose children have special educational needs or disabilities access good childcare.

Janette Godfrey, manager of Sandcastle playgroup, said: "It was lovely when we watched the film back.

"The building's a bit tired, but it's not about that, it's about the attitude and it's about the staff."

Sandcastle has been providing childcare in Haverhill for over 30 years, and caters for children aged two years eight months to five years. They look after children with and without special educational needs and disabilities.

Janette said: "I am a mum, and as a parent you want your child to go into a setting where the people love them like you do. With every child, we want the parents to feel like that."

When a child with a condition they are not familiar with starts at the preschool, the staff organise a meeting with the parents so they can formulate a care plan.

"We just find out what their needs are and make sure we help them as much as we can," said Janette.

Get your will written and help the hospice

GET your will written in June and you could help a local charity.

Haverhill solicitors are taking part in Wills Week for St Nicholas Hospice Care next month, and choosing to write up wills for a donation to the charity instead of their usual fee.

St Nicholas Hospice Care legacy officer Nick Duncan said: "Everyone needs a will, wherever they are on life's pathway. Many people do not realise how the law can badly disadvantage their loved ones in certain circumstances if they don't leave a will – nor that certain life events can invalidate a previously valid will.

"Wills Weeks give the opportunity to make or update a Will and ensure loved ones are looked after as you would wish.

"The donations help the Hospice to continue to offer its vital services to people in the community who need it."

The week commencing June 1, Haverhill solicitors Adams Harrison and Fairhurst Menhuin & Co will be taking part, as will Wayman & Long in Clare.

Haverhill's Valentine & Co will take part during the week commencing June 15.

TRIUMPH: Members of the Haverhill Gymnastics Club at a Bury St Edmunds competition

Gymnastics club takes home an impressive 14 medals

MEMBERS of the Haverhill Gymnastics Club were triumphant at a Bury St Edmunds competition.

The event, which took place at the Spectrum, saw the young competitors demonstrate their skill in floor and vault gymnastics. It was open to clubs from across the East of England.

The 29 members of Haverhill Gymnastics club who competed took home an impressive haul of 14 medals between them, and achieved positions in all of the age group categories.

Members of the club are returning to the Spectrum on Sunday, May 31, to compete in a four-piece competition. The girls will take on vault, beam, floor and bar, while the boys will tackle vault, floor, parallel bars and range and conditioning.

Members of the club, which currently operates from Haverhill Leisure Centre, are waiting on the result of a planning application for their own premises. If it is approved, a business unit in Haverhill's Hollands Road could be converted into a dedicated gymnastics space.

Heart doctor struck off for groping

A CARDIOLOGIST will never practise medicine in the UK again after groping a patient during examinations.

Dr Ajay Kumar Kanojia, working at West Suffolk Hospital, fondled his patient's breasts and tried to kiss her during consultation. He also ordered her to strip to the waist during examinations.

The patient reported the doctor after he hugged her and kissed her neck – discovering his actions were not normal practice and he had used three appointments just to grope her.

The patient said: "I had never been to see a cardiologist before so I just assumed that what he was doing was right. I never thought that I was being taken advantage of because if I had I would never have gone back. To find out that he had been touching me inappropriately all along was really distressing and made it seem a lot more sinister."

The General Medical Council found him guilty of misconduct and struck him off.

The panel ruled he was guilty of

"sexually-motivated and dishonest misconduct" and said they could not be confident that he wouldn't do the same again.

He was also found guilty of "failing in his medical duty" and admitted forging a prescription for himself and trying to persuade a colleague to lie so it could get through the pharmacy.

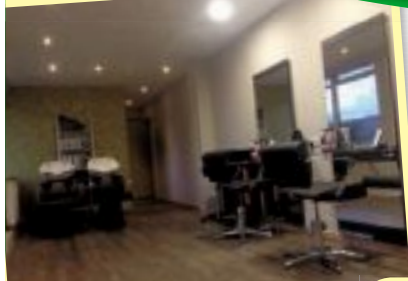

Kim Harrison, from Slater and Gordon solicitors, said: "This was an abuse of the trust that should exist between patient and doctor. What made it worse for my client is that she didn't realise at first that anything he was doing was wrong."

"Every patient is entitled to expect that they will be treated with dignity and respect, not abused for the doctor's own sexual gratification."

A spokesman for the West Suffolk NHS Foundation Trust said Kanojia was a locum doctor and that once a complaint is received, the doctor is no longer accepted to work at the hospital.

ADVERTISING FEATURE

THESE are exciting times for Haverhill businesswoman Louise Spittle.

After 14 years of experience, working her way up to manageress, the Max of Switzerland-trained hairdresser is now delighted to be opening her own hair salon in the town: Louise's Hair Lounge.

Speaking with Louise this week, keen to get the business off to a flying start after having spent four months seeing the world on travels that took her from South America to New Zealand, Australia and Thailand, she explained how, after a "crazy time" since the beginning of the year, spent "sorting everything out, knocking down walls, refurbishing the whole lot", her gorgeous brand new salon is now ready to open its doors.

Louise is an all-rounder, whose many years of experience have led her to excel in every aspect of hair care. So whether you are a woman, man or child, she will be delighted to welcome you into her salon. Louise can also offer a wide range of treatments, from a simple 'cut and blow dry' to a perm, a colour treatment or even balayage (a softer, freehand method of highlighting hair which creates a natural sun-kissed look).

OPENING ON SATURDAY: Louise Spittle outside her new hair salon

With the charming and comfortable salon having been fitted out and decorated to a high standard, and lots of all-important parking spaces available for customers, Louise's Hair Lounge looks set to become a popular destination, both for previous clients of Louise's, and new Haverhill folk looking for a friendly welcome and excellent cut. And Louise confirms that all of her services will be available at a competitive price.

With a beauty room also available at the salon, Louise would love to hear from any local beautician who might be interested in renting a space. Similarly, if you are a stylist that is looking for work, Louise also has space for expansion in the salon, so why not get in touch?

This is clearly a stylish salon that is going places. So make sure you check out Louise's Hair Lounge soon, and get your appointment booked before the rush!

And why not pop in to the salon's open day on Saturday, May 23. Running from 11.30am to 3pm, it will be a great opportunity to meet Louise, see the new salon and – of course – enjoy the selection of complimentary drinks and nibbles. And there will even be Matrix goodie bags to take away with you.

Louise's Hair Lounge is in 29 Hollands Road, Haverhill, CB9 8PU, telephone (01440) 707992.

Hospital wins care contract

THE preferred bidder for a contract to provide community healthcare in Suffolk has been announced – and it's West Suffolk Hospital.

The hospital will provide a range of adult community services, specialist children's services and community hospitals. They will serve 600,000 people across the whole of Suffolk, except the Waveney area.

Professor Dr Stephen Dunn, chief executive at West Suffolk NHS Foundation Trust, said: "By providing a more joined-up service we will be able to break down the organisational barriers that can get in the way of great patient care."

"Together we will make the most of opportunities for community services, primary care, hospitals and social care to work together to reduce pressure across the system and provide the right care, in the right place at the right time."

The contract was awarded by NHS Ipswich and East Suffolk and NHS West Suffolk clinical commissioning groups, the health commissioners led by local GPs.

The panel that decided on awarding the contract included representatives from the commissioning groups, patient representatives, Healthwatch Suffolk, patient engagement group representation, Suffolk County Council and associate commissioners.

Julian Herbert, accountable officer for the clinical commissioning groups, said: "We were determined to find the right organisation to deliver safe, high-quality community healthcare services for the population we serve."

The services have been provided by a company called Serco for the last three years.

West Suffolk Hospital will take over the contract on October 1 this year, but the services provided to patients will remain the same. No job losses are anticipated.

Serco reported making a loss on the community healthcare contract.

Abi Tierney, Serco chief executive, said: "I am immensely proud of the team in Suffolk and of the work they have done over the past three years."

"Despite the operational and financial challenges we have faced, we are now delivering a first-class community service for the people of Suffolk and it is arguably now one of the best in the country."

"Everyone has worked tirelessly to deliver that service and we will ensure that we go on doing so until the end of our contract this autumn so that we hand it over in excellent order to the new providers."

The value of the contract has not been announced, but it will be worth more than the previous year's. The extra money is from increased allocations for the clinical commissioning groups and savings made over the last year.

West Suffolk NHS Foundation Trust, Ipswich Hospital NHS Trust and Norfolk Community Health and Care NHS have been working together on this since 2014.

Fire service gets new equipment

THE fire service has launched a number of new pieces of equipment to help them fight fire as effectively as possible.

Some of the kit will replace outdated equipment, while other items will give firefighters new capabilities. They will all be used across the county.

The new kit includes an operational support unit with environment equipment, which was purchased with the help of £25,000 from the Environment Agency. It includes booms, drain covers and absorbent material, and will be used at fire incidents and chemical spills where there is a need to divert or contain polluted fire water run-off or chemical spills. It also includes lighting and inflatable structures used at larger incidents.

Another new item is the Firebike, funded by The Copdock Classic Motorcycle Club. This fire service motorbike will be used to enhance motorcycle safety education, including the Biker Down programme.

KITTED OUT: County councillor Colin Spence with the members of the fire service and their new equipment

Young drivers: stay safe

YOUNG drivers are being urged to remember the Honest Truth to stay safe on the roads.

The Suffolk Roadsafes Partnership have launched the new campaign to get drivers thinking about the consequences of "potentially careless behaviour" when they are behind the wheel.

In the last five years, 14 young people aged between 17 and 19 have been killed on Suffolk's roads and 175 suffered serious injuries in collisions.

NATALIE ROBINSON

Key areas covered in the campaign are distractions, drinking, drugs, speed, seatbelts, mobile phones, insurance, and drivers showing off.

New eye-catching posters have been launched in connection with the campaign, which will be delivered by driving instructors up and down the county.

Suffolk Roadsafes Partnership is encouraging driving instructors across the county to get involved.

They are holding information events for instructors and providing them with materials to educate their students on the dangers of irresponsible and reckless driving.

Councillor Graham Newman, Suffolk County Council's cabinet member for roads and transport, said: "It's incredibly important that young drivers are made aware of how small changes to their behaviour can save not only their lives but the lives of their passengers and other road users.

"Through this campaign we hope to highlight to the newest generation of drivers the importance of road safety and behaving like a responsible motorist by concentrating on the road and making sure passengers always wear seat belts."

Honesty is not always the best policy

Claire Sleep, an Employment Solicitor at Ashton KCJ, offers some practical advice.

A company director found herself the subject of a lot of press attention a few weeks ago when she sent an abusive rejection e-mail to an applicant who had been interviewed for a position as a self-employed labourer.

The foul-mouthed email tirade described the 48 year old as "an old, aesthetically challenged guy with no teeth". It went on to say "...you are not only the most inappropriate person for this job, but probably for any job you will spend the next few years applying for, only to get rejected as soon as they meet you."

The director said that she thought the applicant had behaved in a rude and offensive way at their meeting. She said that the email (which represented her personal opinion) had been sent in error, and she had merely been venting her frustration after, somewhat ironically, reading an article that day suggesting that anger and upset could be released by writing it down. Unfortunately, it was that "rant" which made it to the unsuccessful applicant's inbox, rather than the alternative, and more appropriate email she had drafted giving feedback on the interview.

This is an extreme example of what not to say. Whilst problems with performance in a work environment, for example, may involve some plain-speaking, it is important not to resort to personal attacks. There is a raft of legislation that could be breached by such a conversation, including the Equality Act, and getting it wrong can have expensive consequences.

Employers should remember that any discussion with a member of staff, whether a performance review or simply a general discussion about their role and responsibilities, it is very important to document what is said. This can be in the form of an email or a note put on their personnel file, but documented nonetheless.

An employer should also look at how anyone in the business with responsibility for staff management and interaction is properly trained in the right procedures. That could be in the form of refresher training held in-house on the companies procedures but externally delivered training on employment law and any changes is also extremely beneficial.

Follow us on facebook

Facebook, the social networking service and website, launched in February 2004 by founder Mark Zuckerberg with his then college roommates and fellow computer science students Eduardo Saverin, Dustin Moskovitz and Chris Hughes.

As of March 2015, Facebook has more than 1.44 billion active users worldwide. Users may create a personal profile, add other users as friends, exchange messages, including automatic notifications when they update their profile. Additionally, users may join common interest user groups, organized by workplace, school or college or other characteristics.

In recent years more and more people have used the social networking site as a platform to promote their business through "Pages" and "Groups". Business Owners are now using status updates to keep their members informed of the latest information about their business.

Below are nine local businesses doing just this. "like" or "Join" their pages to be kept up to date with the latest products, services and promotions on offer.

the GUIDE

Freddy Kempf

Cambridge Corn Exchange's Orchestra in Residence, the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra, is set to perform its finale concert of this year's News-backed Cambridge Classical Concert Series. ANDREW BURTON spoke to soloist Freddy Kempf about the concert, his life in music, and being the venue's artist in residence.

Royal Philharmonic Orchestra, ON Cambridge Corn Exchange, ON Saturday, May 30. Tickets £12.50-£28.50 from (01223) 357851 or cornex.co.uk. HOT TICKETS

WHAT is the Corn Exchange like to perform in?

The acoustic complements rather than hinders and it's always more inspiring to play in a building with a great history rather than in a brand new one.

What advice would you give to a young person contemplating a career as a professional musician?

Every profession is becoming more and more difficult to succeed in and I think music can be particularly difficult to make a living from if you miss the absolute top level.

I think you have to be realistic to start with – if everyone around you is saying that you're maybe not as good as you think you are then at some point you'll need to start to listen to them – simply because when you play music the only thing other people will be doing is listening to you.

However, if you are fortunate enough to be really good then you have to put in every ounce of effort you have and take every single opportunity there is – never give up!

What is your practice routine?

Nowadays I have so many things to prepare at any particular point that it does feel like a constant juggling act.

I do quite literally have three piles of music on my piano, the left pile being urgent stuff needing looking at every single day, the middle pile I need to rotate in order to get through everything once every two to three days depending on how tough it is. The right pile is simply there to remind me that those pieces will be coming up imminently.

What's the best (and the worst) thing about being an international pianist?

The best thing for me is being on stage. It's an incredible feeling to put yourself out in front of many people and then attempt to do something that is either extremely difficult or, at other times, basically impossible.

You are under immense pressure and you try harder than you've ever done in your life, and when everything does go right then the feeling is simply indescribable. And it's amazing that I'm able to make this my life – it's all I ever have to do.

The toughest thing is that more often than not I'm away from my family and my home.

POETRY

LIKE spoken word and all things poetry related? Cambridge Junction has a treat for you.

The venue's "new kind of spoken word night" Double, stages poetic duets and is designed to smash down the idea that poetry is an art form of pure solitary confinement.

This show is all about collaboration so throughout there will never be less than two people on stage at a time. Better believe in the slogan: "One mouth is an opinion. Two mouths are a revolution."

Local poets and writers have already been able to put themselves forward for 10 minute slots in the bright glare, but the deadline has sadly now gone – so here's hoping Double becomes a regular feature...

The headline performers are out in the public domain though, hosted by two Mouthy Poets: Nottingham-born Bang Said The Gun winner Joel Kelly, and University of Cambridge student and Poetry by Heart National champion, Kaiti Soultana.

First up South East London rapper Loyle Carner who has made a huge impression with his 2013 EP a Little Late, particularly for track BFG, which he wrote as a tribute to his dad who died suddenly (check him out at soundcloud.com/loyle-carner).

BBC Radio 1 are fans too, so he's definitely on the cusp of making it big.

He'll be joined by producer and friend Rebel Kleff.

Both are touring with spoken word's current doyenne, Kate Tempest, so expect great things, as well as, we're told: "a fluid fusion of gritty hip-hop, poetry, and everything synonymous with spoken word."

Loyle Carner, Cambridge Junction, Friday, May 29 at 7.15pm. Tickets £8-£10 from (01223) 511511 / junction.co.uk.

MUSIC

The Lambrettas, Cambridge Junction, Saturday, May 30 at 7pm. Tickets £16 from (01223) 511511 / junction.co.uk.

Remember The Lambrettas?

MOD revivalists The Lambrettas are coming to Cambridge Junction.

Despite being named after the Italian scooter, they actually formed in Lewes, Brighton in the late 1970s and early 1980s, dressed identikit style in Mohair suits.

A handful of hits followed, including their most famous, Poison Ivy, which won them the number 7 spot in the UK charts, and a record deal with Elton John's label, Rocket Records.

Poor sales led to repeated splits, until they reformed properly in 2009. The current line-up is Doug Sanders on guitar and vocals, guitarist Phil Edwards, bassist Ant Wellman and drummer Paul Wincer.

2015 is the 35th anniversary of the release of their best known album Beat Boys in the Jet Age, so prepare for many a rendition off this one as the lads relive their heyday.

There'll be live support from soul and 60s revival DJ Jacqui Carroll, and The Circles frontman Mick Walkers.

It's the 35th anniversary of the release of their best known album so prepare for many a rendition off this one as the lads relive their heyday.

■ It must be half term – gather round, gather round for the Moon's magical, mystical story THE TAP DANCING MERMAID about a tippetty-top tap dancer on Wednesday May 27 at 11am. Poor Marina Skippett creeps out of her house every night to shuffle and stomp on the boardwalk to the sounds of the sea. She can't tap-dance at home any more since her evil aunty banned it! But then, one moonlit night, Marina meets a mysterious, watery boy called Leo swimming in the sea and her life is never the same again!

■ Children aged 4 to 11 can come along to a PUPPET WORKSHOP on Tuesday May 26 from 2pm to 5pm to learn how to make and manipulate their very own puppet with Tessa Bide. Devise a totally original puppet show (if there's time) and go home with the ideas and skills to make many more! Children up to 7 must be accompanied by an adult. All materials included.

■ Fancy a giggle? We have oodles of fun in the shape of COMEDY CLUB 4 KIDS on Thursday May 28 at 3pm. This is cracking entertainment for everyone over 6 and under 400 (no vampires). Come along and see some of the best comedians from the UK doing what they do best ... but without the rude bits!

■ We have a bumper crop of cinema this week for the big and smaller people, starting with Russell Crowe on Thursday May 21 at 7.30pm in THE WATER DIVINER (15) which is set in 1919, after the Battle of Gallipoli. A LITTLE CHAOS (12A) showing on Friday May 22 and Thursday May 28 at 7.30pm and a matinee on Monday June 8 at 1.30pm. It is set in 1682 and re-imagines the creation of the Rockwork Grove, a unique element of the gardens at the Palace of Versailles. Next up, directed by Kenneth Branagh and starring Cate Blanchett, Lily James and Derek Jacobi, CINDERELLA (U) is showing on Wednesday May 27 at 3pm. This is Disney's sparkling live-action version of the fairy tale about an ordinary girl who wins the heart of a prince. THE FALLING (15) is showing the same day at 7.30pm. Set in 1969 at a strict English girls' school, charismatic Abbie and intense and troubled Lydia are best friends. After a tragedy occurs at the school a mysterious fainting epidemic breaks out, threatening the stability of all involved. More fun when an alien fugitive bonds with an Earth girl in HOME (U) on Thursday May 28 at 10.30am, a crazy animated comedy from the creators of How to Train Your Dragon. Finally THE SPONGEBOB MOVIE: SPONGE OUT OF WATER (U) is showing on Friday May 29 at 10.30am. To save their world SpongeBob and his aquatic gang wreak comedy havoc in our dimension! Look out for ANNIE, the latest from Centre Stage Company from Tuesday June 2 to Saturday June 6, SHERLOCK HOLMES on Friday June 12 at 7pm and THE SECRET GARDEN on Saturday June 13 at 4pm, both brought to East Town Park by Chapterhouse Theatre.

Citroën wins top title and is also 'Best Crossover' vehicle

THE New C4 Cactus has been named as Diesel Car magazine's 'Car of the Year' 2015. The award recognises the many bold and distinctive attributes of the Citroën brand's latest model, which won the overall prize as well as being named as this year's 'Best Crossover'. The latest-generation Citroën Grand C4 Picasso retained the 'Best MPV' title, having won it for the first time last year.

The New Citroën C4 Cactus has added two top Diesel Car honours to its impressive list of UK industry awards received since its launch in September last year. Previous honours include 'Small Hatchback of the Year' in the UK Car of the Year Awards and the highly sought-after title of BBC Top Gear magazine 'Hatchback of the Year'.

Ian Robertson, editor and publisher of Diesel Car magazine, commented that the New C4 Cactus represents "Citroën doing what it does best – a funky, urban-friendly vehicle that is taking the sector by storm", adding that "clever touches like the roof mounted airbag, protective airbumps and chest-like dashboard cubby box show that the firm's engineers are keen to innovate. Keen pricing, frugal engines and some of the most comfortable seats in the business mark this C4 Cactus out as one of the most distinctive newcomers of the year."

Robertson added: "I am really proud to be able to announce that the Citroën C4 Cactus wins the title of Diesel Car magazine's Car of the Year 2015. It's the perfect car for the times. It's affordable, practical and incredibly comfortable, all wrapped up with a striking design that can be highly personalised."

In addition, the highly acclaimed Citroën Grand C4 Picasso was named as the magazine's 'Best MPV' for the second year running. The judges praised its combination of style, comfort and affordability, adding that "there's a lengthy list of hi-tech equipment and safety functions to keep even the most ardent gadget geek happy."

Alongside the three wins for the New C4 Cactus and the Grand C4 Picasso, the judges also highly commended C3 Picasso in the 'Compact MPV' category.

The newly independent DS brand also received a highly commended for DS 3 in the 'Premium Small Car' category.

Other Diesel Car winners included:

- Volvo XC90 – Best diesel 4x4
 - Mercedes S-Class – Best Executive
 - Skoda Octavia Estate – Best diesel Estate
 - Audi TT – Best sports coupe.

Cambridge Saab to set off in Rusty Rally

BUCKINGHAM & Stanley's Cambridge Saab team will take to the road in their support of a team entry in this year's 'Rusty Rally' charity event organised by the Outward Bound Trust.

Histon-based Buckingham & Stanley have supplied a car - which had to cost less than £500 - to enter the 1,200 mile 'Rusty Rally' journey, for the team to drive from the London to the shores of Lake Como in northern Italy, raising £10,000 per car. The Outward Bound Trust Charity is on track to raise in excess of £120,000 toward their charitable work of taking under privileged young people to the outward bounds of their own personal experiences, testing their survival and physical skills, the work of the Outward Bound Trust is a match for the arduous of the 'Rusty Rally' event itself.

Taking in seven countries in just three days, the team will be tested to their own limits coaching a 198,000 mile Saab 9-5 Estate to the finishing line.

Andrew Ballard, managing director of Buckingham &

THE RUSTY RALLY: An epic rustbucket challenge which demands the highest standards of mechanical ingenuity to complete

Stanley's Cambridge Saab dealership, commented that "the Saab we have supplied should be more than a match for the task in hand, and with our Saab servicing and repair skills coming into play we have every confidence that our own particular entry will make it both there, and back if required".

The team sets off from London on May 21, with a celebratory dinner all set for their eventual arrival on the shores of Lake Como in the Northern Italian Lakes on the evening of Saturday, May 24.

Spittle leads his team to victory

BOB Spittle and his team triumphed in Haverhill's Past Captains' Trophy.

Immediate past captain Spittle was joined by Dave Spittle, Graham Ashcroft and Braintree's Gary Neil for the event, which saw 15 past captains and their guests taking part.

They finished on 109 points, one clear of Gordon Price, Del Thomas, John Young and Pete McLennan, who took the runners-up spot on countback from Dennis Harkness, Kim Ward, Geoff Dorkins and Dean Cornelius.

Brian Crosby, Pat Mansfield, Derek Taylor and Ian Andrews won the 10-hole stableford waltz for the seniors' Wakeman Trophy.

Val Shipp won the ladies' Monday league and Peter Deane won the Mott Cup for the men's Monday league.

Linda Alexander continued her recent good form as she won the ladies' Saturday medal with nett 67.

Fiona Stokes was second on 74 and Gerrie Wheatley took third on countback with 79.

Haverhill recorded a convincing victory in their Hambro Cup match at home to Brett Vale, which was a foursummes format over 36 holes.

Haverhill claim dramatic win

HAVERHILL enjoyed a welcome victory in the Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship, Division Two, with a good win over Long Melford.

A closely-contested match saw Joe Woodley's men sneak home by just 16 runs, recovering from a difficult situation to come out on top.

Haverhill batted first, and after an indifferent start by the top order batsmen, Dan Poole and Tony Phillips made the biggest contributions as they both scored 48.

Dan Pass also did well to hit a useful 35 as the home side posted 191 for 9 in their innings.

Long Melford began their reply well, and needed 40 with nine overs and

However, an unexpected collapse meant their challenge melted away and they finished short of their target, on 175 for 8.

Pass and Poole also played their part with the ball, with each taking two wickets.

"We snatched victory from the jaws of defeat," said delighted skipper Woodley.

"That's the third win by less than 20 runs so it shows our strength and nerve."

The result leaves Haverhill in third place in the table. This weekend they are at home to Ipswich, who are currently sixth.
